

HANDMADE BOOKS FROM THE ROCKY MOUNTAINS

Dakota, by Edna LaMoore Waldo

Pioneer activities along the Missouri River, in the Black Hills, and elsewhere in Dakota Territory, that great, hazardous doorway to the West, are the subject of this revised issue of a limited, privately printed edition.

459 pages, 8vo, $2.50.

California Joe, by Joe E. Milner and Earle R. Forrest

A deadly shot and a scourge to hostile Indians, California Joe, the famous Western scout and plainsman, is here revealed as a good-humored, freedom-loving man with a marvelously adventurous career.

396 pages, 12mo, illustrated, $3.00.

Arizona's Dark and Bloody Ground

by Earle R. Forrest

A carefully authenticated account of the exciting Graham-Tewksbury cattle war of the 1880's. A handbook for the writer who wishes firsthand information regarding early Western ranch life.

370 pages, 12mo, illustrated, $3.00.

WJC

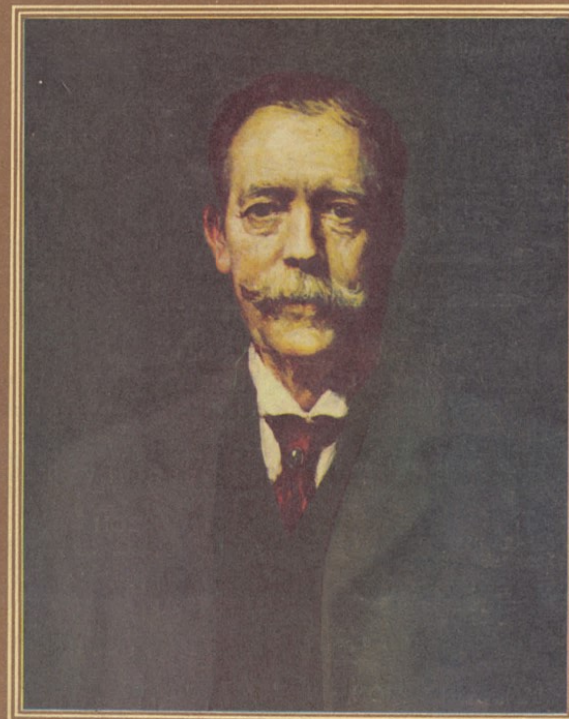

The CAXTON PRINTERS, Ltd.
CALDWELL, IDAHO

A BUILDER
OF
THE WEST
...
FISHER

CAXTON

A BUILDER OF THE WEST

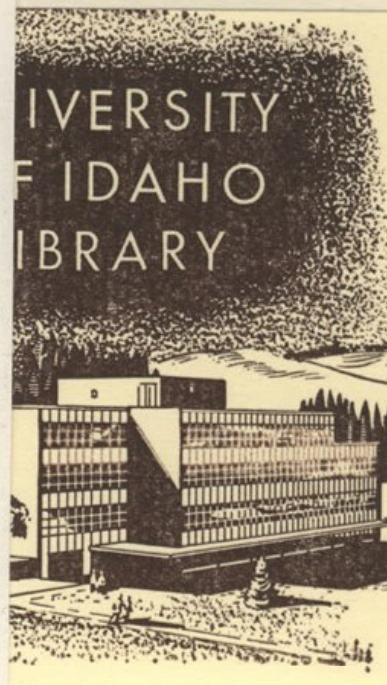

FROM A PORTRAIT BY VON HERKOMER

THE LIFE OF
GENERAL WILLIAM JACKSON PALMER

by JOHN S. FISHER

$3.50

A BUILDER OF THE WEST is the biography of General William Jackson Palmer, engineer, Civil War cavalry leader, Western explorer, railroad builder, creator of the Denver and Rio Grande and Mexican National railroads, and founder of the city of Colorado Springs. It is strange that no full-length biography of the man has been written heretofore, for his life was not only full of romance and adventure, but his achievements were an important factor in the development of the Rocky Mountain region and of Mexico, while the spirit in which he worked and planned should be a clue to the genius of our early-day empire builders.

This book has been written with the help of General Palmer's family and of the many who were close to him in his business and private life, while as far as possible the story is told in his own words, taken from the letters which he wrote from the battlefields, from the Great Plains, from camps in the mountains, and palaces of Mexico. As we read these letters we watch not only a panorama of Western America at its most vital and stirring epoch, but also the growth and fulfillment of a great vision, and the working and dreaming of a very unusual and deeply idealistic mind.